Deck Builder

Ong Innovations

The Deck Builder project was a fun and unique project in which we teamed up with 5 Point Services to design and build a deck for their customers, where the customer had the chance to see, and make changes to a deck they planned on building in their backyard! Multiple people wore HoloLens headsets to not only design how they wanted the deck to look, but how and where to place each board, shaving the design stage of the process from hours to minutes. Not only was the customer overjoyed to use advanced technology to develop and make the slight changes in real-time to his deck, the CEO of 5 Point Services was overly satisfied with the time and resources the HoloLens saved!
